

General

Since version 1.51 IQONTROL gives you the opportunity to save and load configurations on your account. Configurations which have been created before Version 1.51 can also be loaded onto your account.

Load configuration

To load an older configuration you have to go to "Setup" and then tap on "Load configuration (without account)". Now you can load an older configuration which isn't on your account.

Save a Configuration on your Account

Once the old configuration was loaded you can now change into your account and save the configuration on it. To do this you have to go to "Configurations" and then "Save current config". By entering a name and a password and tapping "Save configuration" your configuration will be saved.
